

Michelle Oliver has worked in the field of early intervention and early childhood special education since 1994. Her professional experience includes serving as an EI/ECSE Teacher, Program Specialist, and Director. She currently provides technical assistance, coaching, and program support to early intervention programs locally and throughout California.

Michelle Oliver serves as a member of the California Interagency Coordinating Council on Early Intervention (ICC) and has presented at numerous conferences and professional learning events. She is also a Coach and Instructor for the Santa Clara County Office of Education's Educator Preparation Program, with an emphasis on Early Childhood Special Education coursework.

Michelle is committed to supporting young children and families through relationship-based, routines-based, and trauma-informed practices. Her work focuses on helping programs strengthen family-centered services, embed learning within everyday routines, and build responsive systems of support. She is an Authorized Trainer in Trauma Responsive and Resilience Building practices.

Michelle earned her M.S. in Early Childhood Special Education from the University of Oregon and completed her California credentialing through San José State University. She also holds a California Administrative Services Credential.

Outside of her professional work, Michelle enjoys spending time with family and friends, sharing coffee and conversation, and finding joy in everyday routines and relationships.
